General information:

The declaration is based on the technical and scientific knowledge available as of the date of the declaration and does not constitute a warranty. No liability is assumed for the completeness and accuracy of the information contained therein. The recipient / user of our products is responsible for observing applicable laws and regulations.

Our declaration is based on the documents that we have received from our suppliers, as well as on calculations and migration testing by third parties.

The declaration must be updated immediately (however, no later than after 3 years) upon any changes to the law, regulation / guideline, raw material, formulas, processes or similar items. Consequently, previous versions automatically become invalid. We recommend that you request a new copy of the declaration at regular intervals.
